For county ambulance district

Chamber rejects proposal

The Sikeston Area Chamber of Commerce Thursday voted unanimously to reject the Scott County Ambulance District proposal appearing on the April 5 ballot.

The Chamber did so after hearing statements against the proposal made by Dan Norton.

The proposal will allow the county-wide ambulance district to levy a tax of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation to finance the district. The tax would raise $120,000, Norton said.

He said Sikeston taxpayers would pay 65 per cent of the ambulance district budget.

If the proposal passes, the county will be divided into six separate districts and a special election will be called to elect a representative from each district to the county board.

The board will have complete authority over how the money is spent.

The ambulance district has been proposed because communities in the north end of Scott County are having trouble financing their ambulance service.

The Sikeston ambulance service is provided by Missouri Delta Community Hospital and service for the north end of the county is provided by Chaffee Hospital.

Sikeston has 800 to 900 calls per year, Norton said, with a deficit of $18,000 a year.

Chaffee has 200 calls per year with a deficit of $6,000, he said.

Both deficits are paid by the Scott County Court.

Sikeston ambulance service loses about $15 per call while the Chaffee service loses about $30 per call, Norton said.

Norton said Missouri Delta is happy with the way the ambulance service is now handled.

He said he worried about making the ambulance service subject to an elected board and the potential that politics might enter into the decision of whether or not someone receives ambulance service.

Norton was critical of the way the backers of the district were handling the election. He said that under the law a legal advertisement announcing the election had to be published in two newspapers in the county. He said the ads were published in two small weeklies in the north end of the county and not in newspapers serving the south end of the county.

Claude Benney of the chamber medical committee told the chamber that he had found some doctors who might be interested in coming to Sikeston, although any move is still tentative.

Benney suggested the chamber put together a slide presentation for showing to prospective doctors and businessmen.

Ray Prasifka said 168 persons from area stores attended a recent clinic on how to prevent shoplifting.

He said 68 businesses have agreed to prosecute shoplifters when they are caught.

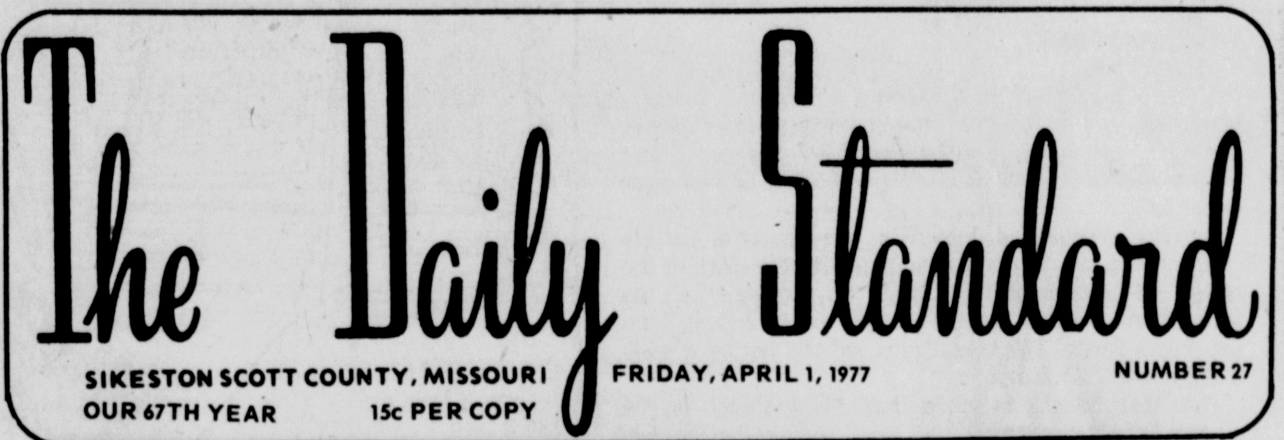

The chamber also heard a brief talk from Glenn Scott, executive vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce, who said the Missouri Center for Free Enterprise will open in two weeks in Jefferson City. The center is designed to promote free enterprise, he said.

Scott said that while business itself is often held in low esteem by the public, 85 per cent say free enterprise is the best economic system yet devised.

He said an educational program is needed so the public knows how the economic system works.

Judy Fleenner read the chamber the report she and Anna Kircher put together on what is right and what is wrong with Sikeston from a newcomers point of view.

Bloomfield mayor drops out of race

BLOOMFIELD -- Incumbent Mayor Glen Ayers this week withdrew his candidacy for re-election to the office, leaving the city without a declared candidate for the April 5 election.

Ayers said this morning that if he was re-elected it would be hard for him and the board to work in harmony. A board member is reportedly working in a write-in campaign for undeclared candidate M.E. Breese.

"It's a touchy situation," Ayers said, "I'd rather just let it die down. This is not a time to have a bunch of bickering."

Ayers did not name the board member, but said the alderman told him that in his opinion nothing had been accomplished in the two years Ayers has been mayor.

"I couldn't understand the statement," Ayers said this morning. "I can't see how anybody can say we haven't done anything for the town."

He mentioned what he considered achievements, including the issuance of bonds for the Southern Clay plant north of town, the success in getting a government grant for a bridge leading to that plant and additions to the fire station so an ambulance could be provided to the city and organization of the auxiliary police.

His feelings hurt, Ayers said this morning

For Arkansas theft ring

SeMo used as distribution area

Investigations by Scott County Sheriff William F. "Bill" Ferrell have revealed that an Arkansas theft ring, dealing with horses, horse trailers, and various items of riding equipment, has apparently used Southeast Missouri as a distribution area for the stolen goods and animals.

Ferrell said a horse trailer and a sorrel roping horse, stolen in Arkansas, have been recovered in this area.

Still being sought are four horses stolen from Arkansas last year. The horses include a Palomino mare with four white stockings, a white star in the forehead and a white snip on the nose. A substantial reward has been posted for the animal, according to Sheriff Ferrell. Another horse, a six year old bay, barrel horse, valued at $3,000 is also among those missing.

According to Ferrell, anyone with knowledge of the location of any of these animals, or other stolen horse trailers or riding equipment, should contact him immediately in order to avoid prosecution in Missouri.

Several leads are being followed and some arrests have been made in the case, the sheriff said.

We are going to vote Tuesday against the Scott County ambulance business. I don't believe we need to encourage the expenditure of any more money by the county than they have now budgeted. Our ambulance service in the Southeast part of the county is good enough for me, it came when I called them, when I needed them and I paid them I thought a very reasonable fee. So, I am going to save my percentage of my next tax bill by voting against it.

WHO THE LOBBY GAINERS ARE

If the amount of money spent by special interest groups on twisting congressional arms is an indication of "who runs America," then it's not big business. It isn't even big labor. It's the friendly people who deliver your daily mail.

By law, registered lobbyists are required to file quarterly reports of their spending with the clerk of the House of Representatives and the secretary of the Senate. According to the latest such report, the American Postal Workers Union led the list by a wide margin with $12 million.

This translates into more than $48 for each of the union's 249,000 members.

Third in line was the 151,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers with $4.7 million, or a little over $31 per head.

The $12.7 million spent by these two unions accounted for more than two-thirds of the $17.7 million spent by all unions combined.

Why the postal unions should be the country's leading lobbyists is a bit puzzling. The Post Office was supposedly taken out of congressional politics when it was reorganized several years ago into the public-private Postal Service, to be run by an independent Postal Commission. But presumably they're getting something for their money, even if the folks who buy stamps don't always.

It is also of interest to note that the second biggest lobby was the public-interest organization, Common Cause (one of whose causes is reform of the lobbying laws), which rang in with $5.8 million. Fifth largest was a group whose members truly do run America, the National Federation of Federal Employees, with $1.6 million.

The only industry group to make the Big Five who spent more than $1 million was the National Coal Association, which at $1.7 million was No. 4.

In terms of single issues, abortion and gun control are the subjects of the most intensive lobbying efforts. The National Committee for the Human Life Amendment spent more than $900,000 and 20 pro-antigun control organizations spent a combined total of $1.5 million.

Compared to these, your oil or automotive people or others one hears so much about, are penny-inchers.

P.S. TO THE NEWS

HUMAN RIGHTS & PANAMA
By
PHYLLIS SCHLAFLEY
Copley News Service

The plot and cast of characters involved in the Panama Canal scenario grow more interesting with every passing week.

Our chief negotiator is Sol M. Linowitz who was a registered agent for the pro-Communist government of Salvador Allende when he controlled Chile. Until very recently, Linowitz was a director and member of the executive committee of Marine Midland Bank in New York, which is on the Federal Reserve Board's "problem list" of banks that have overextended themselves with large loans that may be uncollectable.

Marine Midland Bank has made large loans to Panama, which is now insolvent by an unelected, non-voluntary dictatorship. It is doubtful whether Panama will be able to pay its debts unless it somehow gets control of the U.S. canal and the fees paid by the ships that use it.

When Linowitz met recently with the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, Congressman Robert Dornan tried to ask him about the Marine Midland connection, but Linowitz would not discuss it except to say that he would resign from the bank board.

The secrecy which has enveloped the negotiations that Linowitz and his co-negotiator, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, have been conducting with Panama was rudely broken recently when one of the Panamanian negotiators revealed what has already been decided.

Carlos Alfredo Lopez told the press: "The (Canal) Zone could be out of existence before the end of 1977. We have finished negotiating about 60 per cent of the treaty, and we have agreed that when the treaty goes into effect the American zone will go out of existence."

Lopez' revelation was a big shock not only to Americans who had no idea that our diplomats were planning to surrender this valuable U.S. property so soon, but especially to the 3,500 American citizens living in the Canal Zone.

They are understandably frightened at the prospect of living under Panamanian criminal law which does not recognize basic legal rights. Those accused of crime can be arrested by soldiers and imprisoned for months without bail or seeing an attorney.

The experience of four U.S. Navy seamen is a good example. While walking about 10 p.m. on the street that divides U.S. and Panama property, they were accosted from behind by Panamanian policemen, handcuffed and thrown in the back of a truck.

With no explanation of what offense they might have committed, they were thrown in a compound with at least 800 other prisoners. One sewer drain in the center was the only latrine facility. An old man sold dirty newspapers at 10 cents per copy to sleep on.

The American seamen were denied any use of the telephone. No one spoke to them in English. In the morning, a naval liaison officer appeared and told the seamen that they were charged with "peace disturbance" because they had walked on the Panama side of the street.

The naval officer advised them that, if they pleaded not guilty, their ship would not wait for them, the trial would not take place for at least a month, and that in Panama prisoners are responsible for all their own food and necessities which are presumed to be sent in by friends and relatives. Since the American seamen had none, they were advised that it would be "prudent" to plead guilty and pay the fine, which they did.

If President Carter is so interested in human rights, he might start by defending the 3,500 American citizens who live in the U.S. Canal Zone. If we abandon them by turning over the Canal Zone to dictator Torrijos, they will lose all their human and civil rights.

However, Marine Midland Bank will be able to collect its loan.

KU METEOROLOGIST CAUTIONS ABOUT CLOUD SEEDING EFFORTS
A University of Kansas meteorologist cautions that the prospects for marked success of cloud seeding to induce rain in Kansas are marginal and urges Kansans to think carefully before contracting for major seeding ventures, according to an article from the KU Division of Information at Lawrence.

In this area, meetings have been held at St. Joe in recent weeks concerning efforts by a St. Joe group, the Midwest States Ag Boosters, which wants to hire a California firm to seed clouds over northwest Missouri, northeast Kansas, southeast Nebraska and southwest Iowa. Atchison county would be included in a 96-county area proposed by the St. Joe group.

So the following may prove of some interest to persons from this area who attended the St. Joe sessions on rainmaking. Glen A. Marotz, KU associate professor of geography and meteorology, has spent the last year and a half examining the clouds of western Kansas to determine if favorable conditions for seeding exist there, the KU news story reported. It continued:

"Although Marotz's work, supported by the Kansas Water Resources Board (KWRB), concentrated roughly on the western two-thirds of Kansas, he said he had also formed some 'impressions' about the likelihood of success for eastern Kansas seeding operations. 'Marotz said he was 'not encouraged' at the outset, and despite better conditions than he expected, he said he still isn't convinced."

He was quoted as saying there are too many unknown factors and given the best of conditions, the results are just too difficult to guarantee. "Nobody can promise anything," he said. "Studies have shown that two acknowledged experts working with the same theoretical conditions will come up with directly opposite conclusions."

State-supported research on weather modification in Kansas has been under way for several years, and Marotz said he believes the state has taken an enlightened approach to the subject.

Precipitation develops naturally when enough water vapor from the atmosphere accumulates around dust and other particles in the clouds. In cloud seeding operations, silver iodide and other salts, which attract water vapor more readily than dust, are injected into clouds, encouraging formation of precipitation at lower, warmer levels in the clouds.

The KU article noted that currently the Kansas Water Resources Board is considering one application for a license to seed clouds in the state. Under a 1974 law, the board must license all such procedures. "The application before the board is for renewal on a project in southwest Kansas involving seeding with generators mounted under the wings of aircraft. In the northeast corner of the state, a group is considering seeding from ground-based generators which shoot silver iodide into the air. The KWRB has not been contacted by this group," the article stated.

Although opinion on the relative effectiveness of the two methods is not unanimous, Marotz said ground seeding was unreliable, and that a similar conclusion was reached in 1973 experiments in Kansas.

So it would seem some serious thought should be given before taking a gamble on rainmaking.

Footnote: A spokesman for the U.S. Attorney's office acknowledged to our associate Jack Mitchell that the Treasury agents had been asked to hold off arresting Aziz and seizing the illegal weapons. The spokesman explained that the arrest might have hurt the prosecution of the controversial Hanafi murder case.

A la James Bond: Czechoslovakia's No. 4 man in Washington, Anatol Demucky, started off for Florida the other day in his 1971 Comet. He detected a strange whirring sound and pulled into a service station to find out what was wrong.

The mechanics placed the car on a lift and inspected the underbelly. They spotted a black object attached to the gas tank. The device somewhat resembled a transistor radio with an antenna hanging from it. Alarmed, the mechanic summoned the Washington, D.C., police, who called in the bomb squad. The device turned out to be a battery-operated homing device, suitable for tracking suspicious vehicles.

The Czechoslovakian embassy expressed its "deep concern" to the State Dept. about the incident. Whoever planted the device on Demucky's car, meanwhile, is keeping quiet. One clue: It's the sort of homing gadget that the FBI has used in the past to monitor the movements of suspected spies, although an FBI spokesman denied "any knowledge" of the affair.

Who's News: Budget boss Bert Lance, an amiable, Andy Griffith type, has made himself easily accessible to the press. He has even been known to answer his own telephone. But behind the scenes, his subordinates must go through a strange rigmarole to see him. First they must submit a written memo explaining what they want to discuss with him. The request must also contain a complete list of all others who will be present. And two telephone numbers must be listed for each person wishing to be ushered into Lance's presence.

—Turner B. Shelton, probably the worst ambassador of the Nixon era, has also been the most persistent. The State Dept. brought him back from Nicaragua after a disgraceful performance there. But he called on powerful congressional friends, who helped him get reappointed as ambassador to the Bahamas. Both the Senate and the Bahamas turned him down. He continued to seek appointments to Bermuda, then to Casablanca. In the end, he had to settle for a position as "diplomat-in-residence" at the Navy War College in Newport, R.I. Now the Carter administration has quietly kicked him out.

—Fugitive financier Robert Vesco's most versatile employee is probably Donald Nixon Jr., nephew of the former president. Young Nixon was hired, he has bragged, to be the pipeline between Vesco and the Nixon White House. But "Junior," as he was called in the Vesco camp, had other duties as well. Once he sent a note to Vesco's former pilot, Capt. A.L. Eisenhower, asking him to line up "3 or 4 white females" to travel with Vesco from Chicago to points south. Junior's handwritten note asked that the girls have "red, blond or brown hair" and be "good enough looking to be a Playboy bunny." He even suggested that the girls have the following measurements: "36 plus, 23 minus, 36-7." Eisenhower turned down the assignment.

UNDERSTANDING
If I knew you and you knew me,
If both of us could clearly see,
And with an inner sight divine
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure that we would differ less,
And clasp our hands in friendship;
Our thoughts would pleasantly agree
If I knew you and you knew me.

STOP FISHING...
OSHHA...
We all have fun talking about the "one that got away" from us after we return from our fishing trips, but in the case of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), the one that got away from them (so far) is one they sure aren't bragging about.

A recent ruling by three federal judges in Idaho that OSHA inspections of workplaces without warrants are illegal is probably welcome news to most of us who have been subjected to "fishing trips" by OSHA and other government agencies.

The ruling involved an electrical contractor who refused to let a federal inspector through his place of business. The contractor rested his refusal on the 4th Amendment which prohibits "unreasonable searches and seizures" and says search warrants should only be issued where there is probable cause to suspect a violation of the law.

An examination of the 1970 Occupational Safety and Health Act reveals that it not only authorizes unannounced inspections but prohibits advance warnings that inspections are about to occur. The act also makes no mention of search warrants, and federal OSHA inspectors do not obtain them.

Obviously, the OSHA lawyers will appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court which we hope will sustain the original decision.

It's our opinion (as well as many others) that under the 4th Amendment, which protects us from such "unreasonable searches," there is no legality at all for random government invasion of home or business without proof of probable cause to suspect a violation of the law has occurred.

We're going to be watching the U.S. Supreme Court closely on this one, and we hope that the "one that got away" from OSHA will be the "biggest granddaddy of them all." — The (Marshall) Democrat-News

Do you like your job? We all know people who are constantly complaining of their lot, particularly as to the occupation they happen to be following. It seems that they are forever of the opinion that the other fellow has the better job. And this is not confined to men and boys. Girls and women are also afflicted. It is quite common to hear of a housewife in a comfortable home saying that housework is nothing but a drudge, and that she would sooner be employed in an office or store, while many of those thus employed envy the life of the wife.

Someone said, "The secret of life is not to do what one likes to do, but try to like what one has to do." None gets just what he wants, but he can have what he likes if he likes what he has. — The Modern Woodman.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

$10 Billion Paperweights:
Warehouses being stuffed by chaotic multi-billion-dollar Medicaid waste

NEW YORK — For anyone seeking a new source of fuel, I have an inside tip on two strange warehouses jam-packed with inflammable, not-yet-fossilized material. These buildings are the storage depots of tens of millions of bills submitted by "vendors" (physicians, et al.) to this big town's gargantuan Medicaid system. "Human Resources" officials now are searching for more repositories.

You can believe it—at least 26 million "pieces" of paper accumulate each year inside this city's Medicaid agency now paying the health and hospitalization charges for 1.4 million persons.

Each sheet of paper must be kept. It mustn't be microfilmed. Photostats of original signatures aren't acceptable on rechecking for any reason including criminal prosecution.

Thus, if you're wondering how this vast operation gets ripped off, you have the answer. Thievery by the greedy, by comparison, accounts for paltry scores of millions of dollars. It's the waste, the chaos, the malfunctioning and maladministration which squanders over $500 million a year in Medicaid alone in this city.

This is an especially irritating item at national tax time because half of that huge sum is federal money. A quarter of it is a state expenditure. And the other $250 million comes out of the city's coffers which in turn borrow it from the government.

And note, please, this is only in the Medicaid system. The yearly inflow of 26 million documents is solid fact. Not an estimate. The source is the city's own special Medicaid Task Force of its Human Resources Administration.

Most of this paper is made up of demands for money—720,000 bills a year from nursing homes; eight million invoices from pharmacies and several million from doctors. Many physicians are fleeing the system now because it's months behind in payments to them. Frequently some are overpaid with freak computerized checks adding thousands of dollars to a bill. Some are underpaid. Some, rarely paid. And thousands of medical men, dentists and pharmacists are under intensive investigation.

I'm told it will take another three years for a new state Medicaid information operation to enable anyone to put it all on a national basis. A member of the New York City Medicaid Task Force told me the other day that in one sector an investigator discovered there had been 10 million dollars' worth of errors simply because of inept arithmetic. So the authorities attempted to program the bills on a computer. The loss became even greater.

Yes, the New York City

Human Resources Administration—half of its funds are federal—has a computer system. But it doesn't quite work. And why rush? The state will take over Medicaid responsibility late this year.

It would take an encyclopedia (not a bad idea) to list all the Medicaid abuses. One example should do. There is a horrendous "third party payment" crisis.

"This is a terrible national problem," says Seymour Budoff, Health, Education and Welfare Department regional Medicaid director, who estimates that at least $600 million a year has been misspent on Medicaid services in New York City alone.

This information springs from the surprising revelation by three top specialists in this field who gathered with me the other evening to put themselves on tape. They charge that many unions across the land insist that their welfare funds, or a health insurer, pay health bills directly to the union members and not to the physicians, druggists, or hospitals. The chance of the money being passed on to the health "vendor" is about as good as skiing on the Sahara.

So the vendors—especially the hospitals—bill Medicaid which pays them and then sends the paper along for safekeeping with the other tens of millions of "documents" in those warehouses.

As Budoff asserted this is indeed a national problem. Just how much it adds to legitimate HEW expenditures, no one yet knows. But the federal budget specialists report they'll need an additional $3 billion for fiscal 1978. Which will make the total Medicaid countrywide cash outlay $18 billion that year.

In all, the national cost for Medicaid, Medicare and public assistance (welfare) will top $50 billion in the next fiscal year.

Chaos and chicanery pillage some $10 billion yearly from the nations total cash welfare and poverty health spending, investigators now allege.

Of that, about one billion dollars was wasted, lost or stolen in New York State alone.

About 80 to 90 per cent of that billion goes down the sewers in New York City. The state inspector general, Richard Horan—who hasn't been contacted by the national inspector general, Thomas Morris—says, "That's why my central office is in this city."

Horan reckons that in addition to the half-billion dollars lost in Medicaid, some $400 million is stolen or wasted in the Big Apple's chaotic public assistance program and another $100 million in other supports such as school lunches. The total waste and looting, Horan says, in New York City runs to some $910 million a year.

And that's what can be checked item by item. That is, if anybody can get at those 26 million pieces of paper blizzard in each year. Warehouses anybody?

New state archivist named

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gary W. Beahan, a researcher in the state archives, became the state archivist today, succeeding Pauline Irvine, who retired.

Beahan will be in charge of the preservation and cataloging of the state and other important documents handled by the state archives.

Reorganization won't be soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, armed with new powers to carry out a major campaign pledge to reorganize the federal bureaucracy, will not make his first move until June, an aide says.

Carter, who plans to sign the reorganization bill next Tuesday or Wednesday, will act first to propose a revamping of his own shop, the Executive Office of the President, deputy press secretary Rex Granum said.

The President wants to make the Executive Office a "model" for reorganization, Granum said.

The House voted 395 to 22 on Thursday to give Carter the authority he sought to reorganize federal agencies. The Senate then voted without dissent to send the measure to the White House for Carter's signature.

Air crash insurance bill high

LONDON (AP) — The insurance bill for aviation's worst disaster in which 577 persons died could reach $240 million, London insurers say.

But the first two damage suits filed in California on behalf of victims of the crash are demanding more than $2 billion.

The $240 million total includes $63 million for the Pan American and KLM jumbo jets that collided on a runway in the Canary Islands last Sunday, an estimated $137 million in damages to the families of the dead and to injured survivors, and an estimated $40 million on accident insurance policies taken out by individual victims.

Insurance sources said both Pan American and KLM are signatories to agreements limiting their liability for each passenger to $58,000 damages and $17,000 to cover legal costs. But they said American passengers are subject to a U.S. law that removes the limit if negligence is shown.

Child welfare hearing set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare will hold a hearing Tuesday in Washington, D.C. to determine if Missouri is in compliance with federally funded child welfare enforcement program.

Missouri is the only state that has failed to adopt legislation implementing the plan to locate absent parents of welfare children and obtain child support from them.

The state was given until last June 30 to come into compliance with the mandate or face the loss of more than $4 million in federal welfare funds this year. Lawmakers, miffed at having to concede to federal mandates, refused to pass the bill last year, but the federal government has yet to withhold the funds.

Legislation that would set up the program in Missouri has now been approved in different forms by both the House and Senate and negotiations are under way to work out the differences between the complex bills.

St. Louis-K.C. schedule reset

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Citing the need for improved train service between St. Louis and Kansas City, Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale has announced that the schedule of the National Limited passenger train will be changed.

Teasdale said Thursday the new schedule has been approved by Amtrak to provide better through service for stations in Missouri and improved connections with other long-distance passenger trains.

The National Limited, which runs from Kansas City to both New York City and Washington, D.C., via St. Louis, stops in Kirkswood, Jefferson City, Sedalia and Warrensburg.

Under the new schedule, which goes into effect April 24, the train will leave Kansas City at 7 a.m. and arrive in St. Louis at 12:45 p.m.

On the same day, the train will depart St. Louis at 5:20 p.m. and arrive in Kansas City at 11:05 p.m.

In the past, the eastbound train left Kansas City late in the morning and arrived in St. Louis at 5 p.m., which Teasdale said prevented passengers from carrying on any business activity in St. Louis.

Unemployment rate declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dipped from 7.5 to 7.3 per cent in March as a half-million Americans found jobs and factories recalled workers from energy-spawned layoffs, the government said today.

Labor Department analysts said the improvement indicated that the ill effects of the severe winter weather and related energy shortages had only a temporary effect on the economy.

The March jobless rate was at the same level as in January. It rose two-tenths of a per cent in February largely because of layoffs resulting from energy shortages.

Total employment increased by 513,000 in March to 89.5 million, continuing an expansion that has totalled 1.7 million persons since last October.

he wished the complaints would have been discussed at a council meeting in public.

"I have no quarrel with competition," he said, "I think people should be interested in the community, but not in this way."

Ayers said before the filing deadline he hoped a qualified candidate other than himself would file. He was the only person to file for the position.

At a City Council meeting last month, Ayers criticized the idea of a write-in candidate, saying, "It's a poor way of doing business to have a write-in candidate for mayor when you know two years ahead there is going to be an election. I think candidates should step forward so people can see what they stand for."

Ayers waited to withdraw until Wednesday night after the local weekly hit the streets.

Asked for reasons for his withdrawal, Ayers referred the reporter to that paper, mentioning some advertising for Bresee.

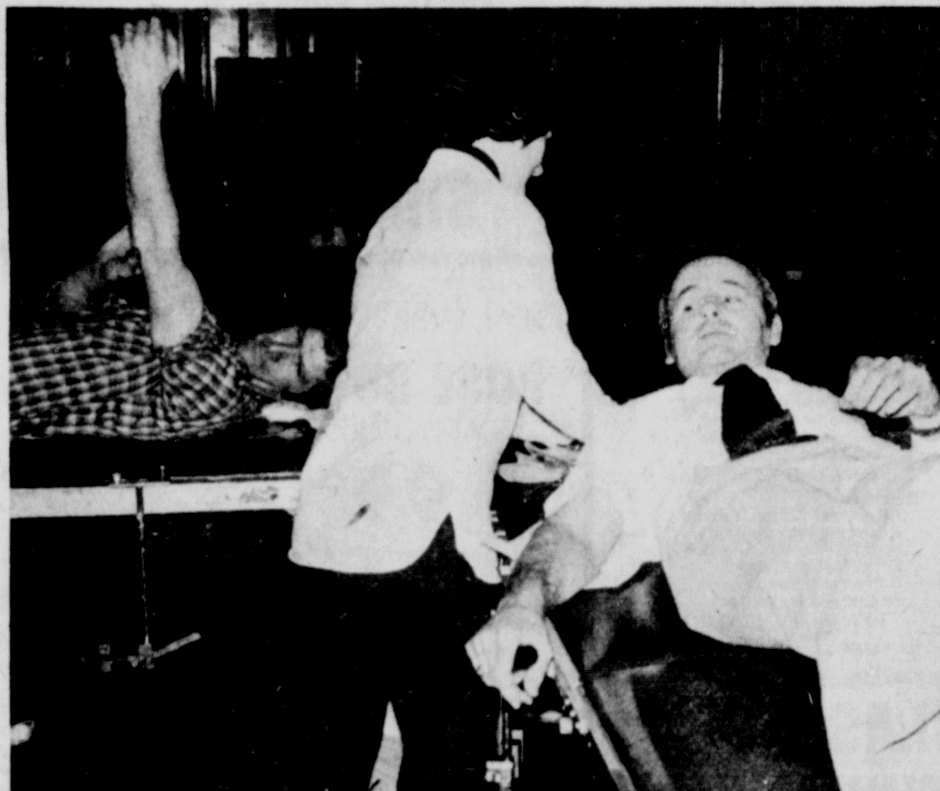

The ads were not directed against Ayers, but were unsigned.

"We need people working together in harmony," he said. Concerning his withdrawal, he said "I think it is the best thing for the community. We can't accomplish anything if personalities are involved."

He still has confidence in the town. "I think we have a wonderful community. The people haven't turned against me. I had no concern about losing the election. I hated to do it, but I feel I would be letting the people down more by continuing in disharmony."

It is possible the people could still vote Ayers back into office. Would he accept the position, in spite of the controversy?

He declined to comment.

Remains of 11 U.S. pilots await final leg of journey

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — In a military mortuary behind a cyclone fence, caskets bearing the remains of 11 American aviators from Vietnam await for the last leg of their journey to a final resting place — a wait that in some cases began 12 years ago.

The bodies arrived in Oakland late Tuesday from Travis Air Force Base north of here. They had been flown to Travis from Honolulu.

Families across the country soon will get the flag-draped coffins of the 11, returned to the United States after a five-man presidential commission met with Vietnamese officials in Hanoi earlier this month.

The bodies were flown to Hickman Air Force Base in Honolulu and were positively identified March 19.

A military transport plane broke through an overcast sky late Tuesday afternoon, rolling to a halt on a wind-whipped flight line at Travis, about 50 miles to the north of Oakland.

As a handful of military officials looked on, the rear doors of the C141 transport swung open.

One-by-one the aluminum caskets were carried by Air Force enlisted men and women to 11 waiting hearses in a quiet and simple ceremony.

Only one family, the wife and daughter of Air Force Lt. Col. Elwyn R. Capling, waited at the base — an installation where similar dramas were played many times when the war in Vietnam was raging.

Mrs. Capling stood in quiet composure, holding the hand of her 12-year-old daughter, Chris. The Caplings, from Chicago, ended a wait that began in September 1968 when Capling was shot down while flying a mission over North Vietnam.

There were no speeches. The 20-minute unloading ceremony was carried out in silence, except for the commands given an honor color guard each time a coffin was carried by on its way to a hearse.

The hearses with a police escort brought the remains to the military mortuary here, where reporters and spectators were kept away by police.

Officials would not say when the remains will be turned over to families, but said final instructions from the Air Force and Navy were expected.

Illinois farm has no need for rain, sun

VALMEYER, Ill. (AP) — While their colleagues fret about surface soil moisture, sunlight and fertilizer supplies, farmers here couldn't care less about those perennial concerns.

The farm Robert Gibson manages is deep in a cave near this Southern Illinois community. There are no moos of cows, oinks of hogs or rustling of corn stalks because Gibson produces mushrooms.

"Since mushrooms are not plants, there is no photosynthesis so they must depend on the compost as a source of food," explains Gibson, general manager of the Castle and Cooke Foods Co., mushroom farm.

"The organic material of the compost, together with an added nitrogen supplement provide the necessary food source," he added.

Marvin Donius, personnel manager of the farm, said the cave with its year-round temperature of 58 degrees is a natural environment for growing mushrooms.

The cave sprawls over 45 acres and has a 30-foot-high ceiling. It was created through many years of limestone quarrying.

The place resembles a coal mine because of strings of lights that cast an eerie, faint glow and workers who move quietly among the mushroom trays to the illumination of lamps fastened to their hard hats.

Herbs aid with insects

By Chris Ann Miller

Okay kids -- Let's dive right back into the garden and let's not forget that while these herbs help out your "veggies", they help them out even more when cooked with them after harvesting.

Pigweed -- Absolutely wears itself to a frazzle pumping nutrients into the soil, is especially good with corn, onions, and potatoes. (Keep it thinned).

Rosemary -- Friends with cabbages, beans, sage and carrots. Drive off cabbage moths, bean beetles and carrot flies.

Rue -- Keep it away from your sweet basil but near roses and raspberries. Does not like Japanese beetles.

Sowthistle -- Use this in moderate amounts to help onions, corn and tomatoes.

Summer Savory -- Improves growth and flavor of beans and onions.

Tansy -- Plant under fruit trees, around roses and raspberries. This one smacks away flying insects, Japanese beetles, cucumber beetles, squash bugs and last but not least ants.

Wormwood -- Use this as a border to keep animals out of your garden.

Yarrow -- The herb's herb. I could write a whole column on this one alone and plan to. Plant it. You will enjoy it. Makes good tea.

It has only been since the Renaissance that people have been planting separate herb, flower and vegetable gardens. The growing interest in organic gardening, along with the desire to move away from artificial means of plant control to the more natural, has brought these three separate gardens together again. I, for one, am glad to see it.

One of the reasons for the blithering intrusion of chemicals into the natural world of the garden, was to control pests. I've got a better idea. Instead of using one of those nasty, smelly, poisonous, aggravating and polluting sprays or powders, try using I hope you like (Italian cooking) nature's best pesticide: Garlic.

Garlic takes up very little room, but sure is powerful (once more the old saying about good things coming in small packages is proven).

Garlic's only possible disadvantage would be its appearance. How -- some -- ever (as Mom would say) you can plant it where it won't show. If you need it somewhere where it would be on display, and look kind of scrappy, plant chives (so pretty) oriental garlic or Egyptian onions.

They aren't as pushy with pests as plain garlic, but they are prettier. Plant garlic near berry bushes, cabbages, fruit trees or anywhere else in your garden to keep away aphids and Japanese beetles.

Some of you may want to plant it with your beans -- a clove in each hill of pole beans or in between two rows of bush beans will help keep those fat crawly yellow things somewhere besides in your garden.

Garlic will seem a little costly at first -- a pound of bulbs doesn't go very far, but each clove planted will multiply into a bulb of many cloves.

Leave your garlic in the ground year-round, it will survive even a harsh winter to push up green fingers in the spring and possibly even during the winter's thaw.

Garlic left in the ground will leave a somewhat pest immune area for next year. You'll want to harvest some of it, of course, because a store bought garlic just doesn't compare with the flavor of homegrown; pull it in July or August.

Garlic will not taint the flavors of your crop, but don't plant it right on top of your root crops, please, people.

I've about run out of space here next week I'll remind me and we'll discuss marigolds and maybe a little yarrow if there's time.

Keep cool have a joyous Psalm Sunday and send a little to the Pigmy Fund. Every penny helps to help to save a most gentle loving people who are surely going to be forced into extinction without our help.

The address is P. O. Box 1067, Malibu, California, 90265. As this is the Holy Season, it behooves us to remember a rather important quote "In as much as you do unto the least of these My brothers, you do unto me."

year I knew of no bisexual relationships among my friends.

Now, it seems, bisexuality is not only accepted but widely practiced among my peers. Male students I could have sworn were straight date members of their own sex just as often as members of the opposite sex. This goes for jocks, cheerleaders, and officers of student government. Young people with tendencies for both sexes tell me they consider this an advantage, not a handicap. They call it "the best of both worlds."

I'm a 19-year-old guy and I've never had any desire to try anything with a member of my own sex. The moral values I learned as a child tell me it's wrong. Yet, if it is accepted by my peers and doesn't do me any harm, isn't it worth experimenting with?

Please print my letter because I'm sure many college students are just as confused as I -- Straight And Narrow.

Dear S and N: Don't mess around. There is more involved here than "right" or "wrong." What it shakes down to is "natural" or "unnatural."

It's dumb to try something for kicks if it violates your sense of decency. What's more, it can get you involved with a bunch of weirdos.

In spite of the facts presented in your letter, let me assure you that a really straight person would have a devil of a time going the other way unless he were bombed, stoned, kinky or a little cuckoo.

Dear Ann: Have you ever wondered how your advice turned out? Well, the letter from the man who wrote to ask if he should marry a woman six years his senior hit home. It's time I wrote and told you what a difference you made in my life.

In 1964, the woman I was in love with wrote and asked what you thought about her chances for happiness if she married a man 16 years her junior. (I was 26. She was 42.) She gave you the facts. Your answer was, "Marry him."

I had won her through subterfuge (I'm ashamed to say), having presented myself as only six years her junior. She almost left me when she learned the truth. Your letter salvaged the situation.

I am now 38. She is 54 and looks younger than I and has a lot more pep. Two years after our marriage my former wife died and we now have my children.

Our marriage is terrific and we couldn't be happier. Thanks for the part you played in making it possible. -- Joyful In Peoria Dear Joyful: How nice of you to let me know. I've said it before and I'll say it again -- age is only a number, baby.

Dear Ann: I dated an attractive dish for over a year. I happen to be a generous guy who doesn't mind being nice to a girl if she is nice to me.

Two months ago I bought the dish an expensive stereo. We broke up last week and I'd like the stereo back. She says she "earned it" and to stop bothering her. What can I do about it? -- Vic

Dear Vic: You can stop bothering her. The stereo belongs to "the dish." You gave it to her, didn't you? Next time keep the volume down and don't go for such a big ticket, Buster.

Area baseball roundup

Bloomfield hurler pitches gem

Bloomfield pitcher Bill Rickman threw a no-hitter Thursday afternoon, but he probably still wishes he could take back one of his pitches. Only a hit batsman in the third inning kept Rickman from chalking up a perfect game as the Wildcats nipped Woodland 1-0 in a Stoddard County baseball clash at Bloomfield.

In other area action, Poplar Bluff nipped Cape Central 2-1, Bernie downed Advance 5-3, Kelly edged East Prairie 9-8, Lilbourn trimmed Hayti 8-7, Chaffee topped Oran 7-4, Campbell nipped New Madrid 3-2, Perryville beat Jackson 8-4, Illmo-Scott City stopped Scott Central 10-3 and North Pemiscot nipped Parma 5-4.

Holland fanned eleven Woodland batters in the five inning contest for the Wildcats, outpitching Dave VanGennip, who tossed a two-hitter. Both hits were collected by Brett Holland who drove in the winning run in the fourth with a ground single to right. Alan Holford had walked and stolen second, and pinch runner Rickey Kelley crossed the plate with the lone run of the game.

The game ended after five innings because of darkness. A girls softball game preceded the encounter.

The only mistake Rickman made was in plunking Jeff Wyatt with a pitch in the third. "They only hit one ball to the outfield," said Bloomfield coach Randy White in praise of his hurler.

Two big-school powers, Cape Central and Poplar Bluff, battled for nine innings before Alan England scored the winning run from third on a single with two out. The hit made a winner out of relief pitcher Ron Bradley and handed the loss to hard-working Lacey Bernard, who went the route.

England garnered his second hit of the game with two out in the bottom of the last frame. Phil Ortega's safety moved him to third. A walk loaded the sacks and, with two strikes, Bud Fritts singled in the winner. Poplar Bluff had tied the game in the last of the seventh on a two-out wild pitch.

Capilla dropped, Brock signs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Left-hander Doug Capilla has been sent to the St. Louis Cardinals' minor league training camp for reassignment, the Cards said.

Capilla, 25, was 4-4 at Tulsa in 1976 before joining the Cards in September. He pitched in seven games with the team, getting credit for one win and no losses.

The Cards also announced

Thursday that outfielder Lou Brock has signed a two-year contract with the club under terms agreed to earlier.

The 37-year-old Brock joined the Cards in 1964 and has 865 career stolen bases and 2,701 career hits.

Sikeston golfers lose to Bucs

What will be a rebuilding year for the SHS golf team began Thursday afternoon as the Bulldog duffers lost by a wide margin to Perryville, 169-194. The match was played at Perryville.

"The scores weren't too good," observed Sikeston coach Mike Foster. Only two varsity golfers broke into the 40's for the nine-hole competition. "Only one of our players had ever played their course," added Foster.

Joel Vogel shot a sizzling 38 for the Pirate team to earn medalist honors, although all four of his teammates shot in the 40's.

For Sikeston, Mike Snider's 44 was low score. John Jackovick fired a 46, Randy Bohannon shot a 51 and Gary Doster and Bryan Elledge shot 53's.

Sikeston did win the junior varsity match 206-212. Craig McGhee's 47 led the way for the Bulldogs.

The team travels to Kennett today to meet the Indians.

Time Out

By CHARLIE FRANCIS

As promised, I'm going to be making my predictions on the Big League pennant races very soon. But first, I'd like to take this opportunity to peer into the future and offer some more profound predictions as to events that will probably take place or not take place in our national pastime this year. (Pay attention, Johnny Carson)

- 1) Ken Reitz will NOT lead the National League in stolen bases this year.
- 2) Dick Allen will once again top the big leagues in batting practices and team planes missed.
- 3) Contrary to present rumors, Pete Rose of the Reds and Dave Kingman of the Mets will NOT have to go on welfare.
- 4) At least 23 per cent of all St. Louis Cardinal fans WILL be able to recognize Al Hrabosky when he comes in from the bullpen for his first appearance this season.
- 5) The New York Yankees will change their minds and vote their bat boys a share of last year's World Series purse, but the bat boys will decide to play out their options and become free agents at the end of the year.
- 6) The Oakland A's will be surprise winners in the American League's Western Division, but they will have their championship cancelled by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn (for the good of the game).
- 7) ABC sportscaster Howard Cosell, on a future Monday Night Baseball broadcast, will complain vociferously about certain baseball players who are nearly as overpaid as he is.
- 8) After Yankee third baseman Graig Nettles completes this campaign with a .205 batting average, four home runs and 39 RBI's, the club will demand that his multiyear contract be renegotiated.
- 9) Another Yankee star, Pitcher Don Gullett, will take his bonus money from the team and will buy the State of Kentucky.
- 10) Texas Ranger second baseman Lenny Randle will win the Golden Glove award this season, but not for baseball.

On a lighter note, the Daily Standard's Dream Team will be announced on Monday, April 11. This means you have a little over a week to write and try to convince us that your favorite should be on the team. Write to: Forum, 205 S. New Madrid Street, Sikeston, Mo. 63801.

We still need baseball schedules and rosters from several prep coaches in the area. Please mail them to our office as soon as possible, and don't forget to phone in the results of your games, the same day, if possible.

What's the law? The case of the fantastic wife

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

During the many years that they were married, Bill and Alice continually fought the battle of the budget. And since Alice had no money or income of her own, throughout the days of their marriage, she was solely dependent upon Bill's generosity in running the home. Nevertheless, one day Bill discovered that his wife had managed to purchase two income-producing parcels of property. And when he demanded to know where she got the loot to do it, Alice clammed up and refused to part with nary a syllable of explanation.

Grabbing a pencil and his cancelled checks, Bill quickly ascertained that during their marriage, he had given Alice more than $100,000.00 to run their home. Racing to court, Bill demanded that his wife be ordered to explain how she spent every last penny of the household money he had given her.

"If Alice bought those properties out of household savings," he told the judge, "the properties belong to me, since it was my money that bought them."

"That's absurd!" responded Alice. "We've been married a long time. How am I expected to remember how I spent that money? After all, I was a housewife and not an accountant."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require Bill's fantastic wife to account for how she had spent the household money?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that while it is doubtful that any man would have the temerity to contend that he is entitled to the full benefit of his wife's thrift and economy, probably at no small sacrifice to herself, the law says that he does. Money given to a wife to run a household, noted the judge, is not a gift nor is it compensation to her for performing her wifely duties. Any such money left over belongs to her husband. Therefore, concluded the judge, Alice must account for the money given her by Bill, since if she bought the properties out of household savings, the properties would belong to her husband.

Nursing students capped

Glowing candles held by 44 students of the Sikeston Public Schools Practical Nurse Program represented the formal capping ceremony on March 18 at First United Methodist Church in Sikeston.

The Practical Nurse Program is authorized under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act and supervised by the Sikeston Board of Education. This 52-week course includes classroom hours and clinical experience at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston and Pemiscot County Medical Center in Hayti.

An organ prelude played by Terry True opened the program as students came down the aisle to stand during an invocation led by Louis Evans.

Students Betty True and Marjorie Clark sang "One Day At a Time," which led to the welcome address given by Bill Sikes, supervisor of special services.

Gary L. Smith of Dexter, state representative of the 157th District, introduced by instructor Mrs. Maria Rapert, was guest speaker at the 16th annual capping ceremony. He spoke of the nurse's role in society.

Mona Thomason and Patty Adams then sang "Lean On Me."

A poem, "The Cap," was recited by nursing trainee, Linda Estes. Bonnie Greer, coordinator, explained the purpose of capping, which signifies the students have successfully reached the midway of the nursing course.

Mrs. Greer announced the names of the students as Mrs. Clara Eisenbach, R.N., B.S.N., M.A., supervisor of health occupations, presented each student a lighted candle-symbol of the "Lady of the Lamp". Florence Nightingale, founder of modern nursing. Mary Ann Pruiett, R.N., B.S.N., coordinator at the Hayti branch, pinned caps on the 44 students. Students receiving caps were Patti Adams, Brenda Anderson, Deborah Brown, Diane Brown, Sheila Brown, Janet Bunch, Pauline Caldwell, Clara Clark, Marjorie Clark, Debra Cox, Paula Crawford, Cynthia Dennis, Kathy Ditto, Dorothy Donahue, Ester Ellis, Linda Estes, Sherry Faries.

Glenda Glaus, Carolyn Harris, Karen Harrison, Iris Hayes, Rebecca Huffman, Pamela Jones, Margaret Kinder, Elizabeth Klipfel, Sherry Lanier, Barbara Lawrence, Fleeta McDaniels, George Merkle, Bonnie Miller, Karen Morgan, Diana Neal, Deborah

Patterson, Sharon Payne, Sheila Rettig, Melba Shirkey, Patty Simms, Mary Summers, Linda Taber, Betty Tanner, Mona Thomason, Valerie Thompson, Betty True, and Linda Williamson.

After each student received her cap and candle, the students sang in candlelight, "I Believe."

Louis Evans gave the benediction and the trainees moved slowly in pairs down the aisle, carrying the lighted candles.

Immediately after the ceremony, there was an informal reception held in the church fellowship hall.

Animal products important to food supply

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Man's continued use of animal products can delay almost indefinitely the time when the world food supply becomes the controlling factor in human population, a dairy educator said Tuesday.

Livestock, particularly ruminant animals, add to the world food supply by converting vast quantities of forage, grasses and other materials which otherwise would be wasted into valuable additions to the diet, said Dr. Kenneth E. Harshbarger, head of the dairy science department at the University of Illinois.

Harshbarger told a meeting of the Dairy Council of Greater Kansas City that only 11 per cent of the earth surface was suitable for food crop production but an additional 22 per cent is suitable for forage production.

"This says to everyone that animals must be used to convert the cellulose and other such materials that are produced on (noncrop) acres to produce more food," he said.

Harshbarger said world population, now a little more than 4 billion, probably will increase into the next century. Intelligent planning of all resources, including continued animal production, should give mankind an acceptable quality of life to support increased human population, he said. He added that such planning should take place before the opportunity is lost forever.

"The potential for increased food production is still favorable, but world resources are finite and limited and there must come a time when feed will be a balance between food and human population," Harshbarger said. "Even then, maximum food production will be obtained by using animals to convert nonedible materials into human foods. Thus, more food for more people."

INDIAN WAMPUM took a long time and a roundabout route to reach Kansas City for an exhibition of treasures of the New World's original culture. On loan from France's Chartres Cathedral, the belt is returning to the continent of its origin for the first time in more than 200 years. The belt, which reads in Latin
"Given by the Abenaki to the Virgin Mother", was made of shell and porcupine quills
by Indians of the St.
Lawrence Valley and given to French missionaries as an offering to the Virgin Mary.
Taken by Jesuits to Chartres in 1699, it will be on view this spring as part of "Sacred Circles: 2000 Years of North American Indian Art" at the Nelson Gallery of Art-Atkins
Museum of Fine Arts.

Calvary to mark birthday

Calvary Assembly, located at the corner of Scott and Trotter streets, will observe its third anniversary Sunday, according to the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor.

During the morning service a mortgage- and note-burning ceremony will be conducted, and the pastor's message will be titled "Ebenezer."

In September 1974, the congregation bought and completely remodeled and refurbished the facilities formerly owned by First Church of the Nazarene. Then, last June, the congregation borrowed a down payment on a parsonage. The mortgage and note have now been paid off and will be burned during the Sunday service. The furnishings were paid for as they were bought, leaving the mortgage on the parsonage as the only existing property obligation.

The attendance at Calvary reached a new monthly average high last month, 382. Another record is expected in April due to the special activities that include an Easter revival crusade with Evangelist Red Dixon. Also, during the month of April the pastor will be celebrating the completion of 30 years in gospel ministry.

The Rev. Mr. Alterman will illustrate the various customs and traditions associated with this holiday which the Jewish people have been observing more than 3,000 years. Passover recalls the exodus of the Hebrew people from Egyptian bondage.

He will also show the relationship between the Passover and the ministry of Jesus. Jesus observed the Passover with his disciples, known to many as "the last supper."

THE BIBLE

No. 285. Micah's Prophecy of Christ

The prophet Micah, a native of Moreshet-Gath in the lowland plain of Judah, received in the form of visions messages addressed to both Samaria and Judah. His most startling prophecy was his vision of the coming of Christ.

"Hear, all ye people; hearken, O earth, and all that therein is: and let the Lord God be witness against you, the Lord from his holy temple. For, behold, the Lord cometh forth out of his place, and will come down, and tread upon the high places of the earth. And the mountains shall be molten under him, and the valleys shall be cleft, as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are poured down a steep place." (Micah 1:2-4)

Although most of Micah's prophetic messages declared the imminent doom of the corrupt people of Samaria and Judah, he did predict the eventual triumph of Christ. "The breaker is come up before them; they have broken up, and have passed through the gate, and are gone out by it; and their king shall pass before them, and the Lord on the head of them." (Micah 2:13)
